Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 21 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Clear and frosty tonight. Pleasant sunny spells Thursday.

This Evening and Tonight:
It will be dry this evening and overnight, with long clear spells, and winds mainly light. This will allow temperatures to fall, with a widespread frost developing. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Thursday:
A dry and fine day is forecast with long sunny spells. After a cold start temperatures will recover to give a pleasant feeling afternoon, with winds mainly light. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Continuing dry with pleasantly warm sunshine and variable cloud cover. Sometimes cooler on coasts with mist and onshore breezes. Frosts are still likely during nights, where skies are clear.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.